PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

C. H. Peppers arrived in the city Sunday from Phoenix to spend a few days looking over the district.

L. A. Dunham left for his home at Denver yesterday after spending several days here on business with the Inspiration Mining company.

D. J. Roberts, ore buyer for the El Paso smelter, was an arrival in the city last evening, to do business with some of the Globe district shippers.

John Blake, a well known mining man of Graham county, came in last evening from Stanley Butte to transact business for a few days.

Mauri Grider, Safford manager for the Solomon-Wickersham company, came up from the valley Sunday evening to spend a few days in the city on business.

Frank Gates will leave this morning for Medford, Ore., to assist in settling the estate of his father, who recently died there. He expects to return by the first of next month.

H. S. Manuel of El Paso, representing the Barnard Stationery company of St. Louis, is a business visitor in the city. Mr. Manuel is a good Globe booster and has recently become interested in the city by becoming a stockholder of the First National bank.

Growing Aches and Pains.

Mrs. Josie Sumner, Bremont, Tex., writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for three years. I would not be without it in the house. I have used it on my little girl for growing pains and aches in her knees. It cured her right away. I have also used it for frost bitten feet, with good success. It is the best liniment I ever used." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Palace Pharmacy.

For Diseases of the Skin.

Nearly all diseases of the skin such as eczema, tetter, salt rheum and barber's itch, are characterized by an intense itching and smarting, which often makes life a burden and disturbs sleep and rest. Quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Salve. It allays the itching and smarting almost instantly. Many cases have been cured by its use. For sale by all Druggists.

TRICK WITH CARDS.

How to Mystify Your Friends With Seeming Magic.

One of the simplest tricks to perform, but one not easily detected, can be executed by using a tapered deck of cards as shown in Fig. 1. A cheap deck of cards is evened up square, fastened in a vise and planed along the edge in such a manner that all the pack will be tapered about one-sixteenth inch. This taper is exaggerated in the illustration, which shows one card that has been turned end for end.

It is evident that any card reversed in this way can be easily separated from the other cards in the pack, which makes it possible to perform the following trick: The performer spreads the cards out, fanlike, and asks an observer to withdraw a card, which is then replaced in any part of the pack. After thoroughly shuffling the cards the performer then holds the deck in both hands behind his back and, pronouncing a few magic words, produces the card selected in one hand and the rest of the pack in the other. This is accomplished by simply turning the deck end for end while the observer is looking at his card, thus bringing the wide end of the selected card at the narrow end of the pack when it is replaced. The hands are placed behind the back for a double purpose, as the feat then seems more marvelous, and the observers are not allowed to see how it is done.

Consequences.

One of the old time favorites at a small gathering is the game of "consequences," and age does not seem to have robbed it of its charm.

The players sit in a circle. Each person is provided with a half sheet of note paper and a pencil and is asked to write on the top line (1) one or more adjectives, then to fold the paper over far enough to cover what has been written. Every player must then pass his or her paper to the next player on the right, and all have then to write on the paper received from the left hand neighbor (2) the name of a gentleman. The paper is then folded down again to hide the last writing and passed as before. This time must be written (3) one or more adjectives, then (4) a lady's name, next (5) where they met, (6) what he gave her, (7) what he said to her, (8) what she said to him, (9) the consequences and (10) what the world said.

Be careful each time anything is written to fold over the paper and pass it to the right. When every one has written what the world says, the papers are collected, and one of the company proceeds to read aloud the various stories, with a result perhaps like this: (1) The graceful and hideous Mr. Brown met the ambiguous Miss Smith in a vaudeville theater. He gave her a kitten and said to her, "How's your mother?" She said, "Fine after the rain." The consequence was they slipped on a banana peel, and the world said, "Sic semper tyrannus."

A Game of Hops.

The company is divided in two parties, and as many prizes may be offered as desired.

One party stays in the room or any given place on the lawn, and the other party is out of sight and sound. Then party No. 1 decides upon one or several places to which the others are to hop and decide also in how many hops the desired places are to be reached. These decisions are set down on paper to prevent future misunderstanding. Then party No. 2 is called.

Those on this side may look about, choose points and hop toward them in as many or as few hops as they think may be desired. It adds to the fun to have the nearer places take more hops than places at a distance. The prizes go to those who go to the right places with the nearest correct number of hops.

After party No. 2 has a trial party No. 1 has its turn. Points noticeable to all should be chosen and no impossible number of hops required.

The Surprise Party.

A good amusement for a young folks' party is a "package game." After the children are assembled each one is given a large, neatly wrapped package. Of course it is addressed to him or her to whom it is handed. The receiver opens it eagerly, only to find that inside is another wrapping addressed to another member of the party. This causes much fun in the exchange and in the surprise. As many wrappings may be inside as the hostess cares to have, but in the last is a little gift appropriate to the real recipient. Each wrapper bears a new name.

Shooting Fish.

Many of the natives of the islands of the south seas are experts at shooting fish with a bow and arrow. The art is a difficult one, for the reflection of the water has to be allowed for.

He Knows.

"Does your little brother know how to walk, Abner?" "Yeth. He knowth how. We all showed him, but he c-a-u-t do it yet."

EAT MORE CANDY.

A Physician's Advice That Will Please the Children.

"Give children plenty of pure sugar, taffy and butterscotch, and they'll have little need of cod liver oil," says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in the Woman's Home Companion.

"In short, sugar is after meat, bread and butter easily our next most important and necessary food. You can put the matter to a test very easily. Just leave off the pie, pudding or other desserts at your lunch or midday dinner. You'll be astonished to find how quickly you'll feel 'empty' again and how 'unfinished' the meal will seem. You can't get any workingman to accept a dinner pail without pie in it. And he's absolutely right. The only thing that can take the place of sugar here is beer or wine. It is a significant fact that the free lunch counters run in connection with bars furnish every imaginable thing except sweets. Even the restaurants and lunch grills attached to saloons or bars often refuse to serve desserts of any sort. They know their business. The more sugar and sweets a man takes at a meal the less alcohol he wants. Conversely nearly every drinking man will tell you that he has lost his taste for sweets. The more candy a nation consumes the less alcohol.

"The United States government buys pure candy by the ton and ships it to the Philippines to be sold at cost to the soldiers in the canteens. All men crave it in the tropics, and the more they get of it the less 'vino' and whiskey they want.

"In fine, the prejudice against sugar is born of puritanism and stinginess in equal parts. Whatever children cry for must be bad for them, according to the pure doctrine of original sin; besides, it costs money. I know families in the rural districts yet where the head of the family groans over every dollar's worth of sugar that comes into the house as a sinful and 'unwholesome' luxury."

CHILDREN'S HAIR.

Brush the Baby's Locks Upward Instead of Downward.

A baby's hair should always be brushed upward instead of downward, and as each lock is treated it should be given a little twist with the finger, this operation having particularly good and lasting effect when the hair is damp.

Persevered in daily, this will be found to work wonders, even in cases where the natural growth was perfectly straight, although it must be noted that for the first week or two before the hair has become accustomed to the upward trend the effect is hardly pleasing. One of the best shampoos for a child's hair, especially when long and thick, consists of a well beaten egg made into a froth with hot water and rubbed into the roots of the hair.

Borax and ammonia—especially the latter—should be sparingly used, ammonia in particular being inclined to damage the color and shimmer of fair hair, while it frequently causes it to become brittle and split at the ends. No curling fluids should ever be used for children's hair, but if too dry a little brilliantine rubbed well into the roots will promote a healthy growth and further induce a pretty wave and curl.

Which will be given by the Knights of Columbus. An invitation is extended you to attend.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol For Dyspepsia: "E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years from indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of corn bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 pounds; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and I was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping that humanity will be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904." Sold by Hanna's Drug Store, 228 Broad street.

If your chest pains and you are unable to sleep because of a cough, buy a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and you won't have any cough. Get a bottle now and that cough will last long. A cure for all pulmonary diseases. Mrs. J., Galveston, Tex., writes: "I can't say enough for Ballard's Horehound Syrup. The relief it has given me is all that is necessary for me to say." Sold by Palace Pharmacy.

You may decide when the old suit has "lasted long enough." But do not wait until your friends have all made up their minds about it.

WHEN A DOLLAR DOES "STUNTS"

Perhaps the greatest feat a dollar ever does is to bridge the difference between a good and a poor suit of clothes.

When you buy a suit you must pay for fabric, manufacturer's and dealer's profit. These things MUST be included in every suit that is sold.

But, sometimes, if you are a man who "cares," you can spend a dollar or two MORE than the indifferent suit would cost, and secure really very great additional value—in fabric and workmanship. If you know when to pay a LITTLE MORE, you know how to make your dollars do "stunts."

And that's the reason we are insisting just now that you see our spring line. Everything that is GOOD will be found in the fabric and workmanship—it's PERFECT—that's the word. The price will satisfy you. Suits from $15 to $35—particularly strong on $25 suits.

Just now we think we can give you better value than you have ever had in a suit—even if you got that last suit here.

INGRAM'S

INGRAM'S

Good clothes are merely one expression of good business sense—to say nothing of taste, and of deference to one's family.

IMPORTANT ARRIVAL IN TOWN

One of the recent arrivals in town should be of personal interest to YOU. Of interest to you because destined to effect, intimately and favorably, and comfortably, YOUR personality, your outward appearance to your fellow men and give you a commendable "standing" in the community. This "arrival" has come to help you in many different business deals—in fact all through the daily "walks" of life—to increase your self-respect and self-confidence.

The "arrival's" name is Oxford Shoes. Please call and get acquainted—in blacks, tans and patent leathers. Absolutely exclusive lasts—and the acquaintance will wear well.

Another arrival in Mr. Necktie—the most enticingly regaled member of the family ever visiting Globe. See him and you will form a close friendship—take him to your breast—as it were. Would be competitors look in the windows and wonder where we picked up such a handsome line.

Your dollar is above par here—if you consider what it will buy in the way of clothes-value, compared to its buying power elsewhere.
